BIG THINGS.

Colossal commercial enterprises seem to be the order of the day now. The financial world is bent on accomplishing big things and some of them are so big that there is danger of their t ppling over and causing general disaster in the crash that will follow. Within the last few years there has been a general fear that corporations were growing too powerful, but corporations are now left behind, they are too much trammeled with laws, regulations and safe guards to suit the ambitious projects of the modern financier, who likes to be unfettered in his undertakings -with other people's money.

This has given birth to the Trust company, which has none of the inconveniences of corporation law to interfere with its smooth working. of business they may engage in.

A corporation is limited and bound by legal safeguards which plainly defines what it can do and what it shall not do. In all incorporation deeds hibitionist as a saint, the saloon keepthe business which the association is to er as a sinner and the advocate of engage im and the place where its high licence as a hypocrite, a har and chief office is located and books kept a liquor seller in disguise: It is not back will put it into some legitimate will in obedience to said order of sale and business. are plainly specified. Our corporation laws are the result of years of cumulated legal being secured as effectually as possible the Marquis of Salisbury's adminisby every legal safeguard.

The Trust company is a very different thing. It is not a corporation, although it may own and control corporations. It has no legal status, neither need there be any limitations to the character or extent of its transactions. It is thoroughly irresponsible. it need have no legal place of business, it can embark in any business transactions its directors may choose and the stockholders have no right to investigate accounts, if they could her winsome face and gracious mannnu and to investigate.
